REFUGEE SUPPORT AEGEAN

RSA (Refugee Support Aegean) is a civil non-profit company (AMKE) under Article 784 of the Civil Code, headquartered in Chios, and, according to its statute, active in the field of asylum and human rights.

It was established on 09.02.2017 under the Statute dated 31.01.2017 (Chios Court of First Instance, serial no. 3/09.02.2017), as successively amended and currently in force, and holds General Commercial Registry (G.E.MI.) number: 1664523759000.

According to its Statute, RSA (Refugee Support Aegean) aims to provide free legal support to asylum seekers and refugees, monitor and highlight human rights violations, and provide social and humanitarian support to particularly vulnerable persons. Particular emphasis is placed on the following:

- The provision of legal, social and psychological support to refugees, applicants for international protection, and victims of human rights violations.
- The promotion of the principles of national and international law, such as non-discrimination, the prohibition of torture and other forms of ill-treatment, the right to a fair asylum procedure and dignified living conditions, and the defence of individual rights and freedoms.
- The provision of humanitarian assistance to groups of refugees and applicants for international protection, victims of shipwrecks, and particularly vulnerable persons.

Members of the civil non-profit company (AMKE) are Karl Kopp and Dimitris Tsouchlis. The Administrator and legal representative under the Statute is Dimitris Tsouchlis, who has extensive experience in the field of civil society.

The General Assembly has overall oversight of the organisation as its highest decision-making body. It is composed of all members of the organisation and decides on all matters relating to the organisation on a regular basis once a year within the first half of the year, and on an extraordinary basis at any time, following a request by any of the partners and/or its administrator.

The Administrator is appointed by the General Assembly in accordance with the Statute and represents the organisation before any third party, natural or legal person, or Authority. The keeping of the organisation's books, financial records, and treasury is assigned to an accountant, while an audit is conducted annually by certified auditors.

Furthermore (see also the organisational chart), the following individuals have undertaken relevant duties:

- Quality Assurance Officer: Minos Mouzourakis, attorney
- Data Protection Officer (DPO): Marianna Tzeferakou, attorney
- Safety Officer: Dimitris Papamichail
